

FRIDAY, JUNE 10. 1743.

Munich, June 3.

HERE have been just now brought hither 130 or 140 Croats, who are to be transported immediately to Ingoldstadt; the Austrian Colonel Lutwitz left them at Rosenheim, while he march'd with the Forces under his Command to Traunstein and Reichendal, of which, as soon as we had Notice, we sent a Party to surround them, and bring them off; they defended themselves with great Obstinacy, but in the End, oppress'd by Numbers, were taken Prisoners, and conducted hither. We have been amus'd here with Stories of the French marching to join us every Day, which have pass'd upon the Emperor for some time; tho' General Seckendorff forefaw, from the Beginning, that they never intended any such Thing. This induced him to retire towards Moersbourg, in order to be within Reach of Ingoldstadt, tho' he openly declar'd that he would not suffer the Imperial Forces to be cut off, but would rather explain the Situation he was in to Prince Charles of Lorraine. The Court is on the Point of retiring to Augsburg, tho' there is very little Difference between the Scheme offer'd for a Pacification with the Court of Vienna, and the Terms the Emperor has offer'd to accept. The Bavarians, in general, are exasperated to the last degree against the French; and, in most Places, carry off all the little Provision they are Masters of, to the Austrians, who pay them in ready Money, treat them with great Civility, and, if we are rightly inform'd, have suffer'd several Convoys of Victuals to enter Braunau, out of a Principle of Generosity that the Garison should not be starv'd.

Ratisbon, June 7. Things are here in a very extraordinary Situation. The French, after abandoning the strong Post of Stadramhoff, pretend to defend that of Weix. This induced the Austrians to raise several Batteries against it, from which they fir'd very warmly, till it was perceiv'd that the sole Design of the French in preferring that Post, was to cover their Embarkations on the Danube; upon which Prince Lobkowitz forbore to expose his Troops, and said openly, That since the French were running away, he would not hinder them from having a little Bread to eat. M. Broglie, indeed, gives out, that he will speedily march hither with his whole Army; but we know not how to believe him, since Baron Palm shew'd publicly a Letter from Prince Charles of Lorraine, dated but the Day before Yesterday, in which he says positively, that he intended to march this Morning, in order to attack Straubingen.

Nuremberg, June 6. The Austrians have very closely block'd up the City of Egra, so that it is simply impossible for the Garison to get any Sort of Provisions; at the same time that, at least, one Third are disabled with the Scurvy, and other Diseases. General Fesetitz has, however, declared, that he has no Orders to keep the Inhabitants confined in their Town; but that if they are inclined to go into any other Part of Bohemia, they may pass freely thro' his Camp. This Intimation has induced, at least, one Third of the Citizens to quit the Place, and retire into the adjacent Villages. According to the Accounts they give, the Garison must very soon surrender, as they are absolutely in want of Bread and other Provisions.

Hague, June 15. The great Dispute here is, how, and where, our Troops shall be employed. The Marquis de Fenelon, and the Count de Sinheim, have insisted strongly, that they shall not pass the Rhine; and for his Reason, that as the Dyet of the Empire has invited the Maritime Powers to join in a Mediation for restoring the Peace of the Empire, this must be absolutely defeated by their taking any Share in the War. At first this was insist'd upon with great Warmth, and as if his most Christian Majesty would have taken Umbrage if it was not complied with; but when it was intimated to the Marquis de Fenelon, that the Succours granted to the Queen of Hungary by the Republick was not in Virtue of any offensive Alliance, or with a View to Acquisitions, but barely in compliance with Treaties, and out of a Desire of preserving the hereditary Dominions of the House of Austria, and that, consequently, they must be employ'd where-ever they might best answer those Ends, he dropt a good deal of that Warmth which had attended his former Declarations, and said very modestly, that he would acquint his Court with the Reasons that had been offer'd him; and that he hoped they would appear as satisfactory to the Ministry as they did to him. Since this, we make no manner of doubt that these Troops will actually join the Auxiliary Army, if her Hungarian and Bohemian Majesty insists upon it; or if, on the other Hand, they should form a Camp in the Austrian Netherlands, in order to observe the Motions of the French, it will be purely for the Service of the common Cause, and not at all out of Compliance to the Court of Versailles.

THE Elements of ALGEBRA, in a New and Easy Method; with their Use and Application in the Solution of a great Variety of Arithmetical and Geometrical Questions, by General and Universal Rules. To which is prefix'd, An Introduction containing a succinct History of this Science.

By Mr. NATHANIEL HAMMOND, of the Bank.
 Extract from the Account of this Book in the Works of the Learned.

'The World has long complained of the Want of a proper Introduction to Algebra. Some are so very concise, as if they were contrived not to teach but introduce a Teacher; others again are larger, but wrote with so little Consideration to the Understandings of such as are altogether unacquainted with the Science, that they are of very little Use to those who are most inclined to make use of them. Whence it comes to pass, that few find it practicable to make any Progress in Algebra without a Master, tho' certainly the Science in itself is far from surpassing a clear Head, and a tolerable Understanding.
 'The Design of this Treatise, which is of a reasonable Bulk, and which contains nothing which is not solid, and to the Purpose, is to assist such as are engaged in teaching Algebra with a regular Method, and a large Stock of Examples; so that their Scholars may find Employment in their Absence; and to enable such as live in Country-Places, and must consequently want all other Tutors, except Books, to acquire such a Skill in this Science, as may enable them to spend a Portion of their Time agreeably in the Cultivation of their better Parts, and in rendering a natural Method of enquiring after Truth habitual.
 'The Treatise begins with a copious Explication of the Fundamental Principles of the Art, and of the Signs and Method of Notation used therein. The Author then proceeds to the several Rules, explaining them carefully and copiously in all their various Cases; so that with a moderate Attention it is simply impossible for a Person, who desires to be Master of Algebra, to miss of his End.
 'We never find this Writer advancing any thing out of its proper Place, or burthning the Mind of his Scholar with Rules, before they become necessary: He professes to have imitated the judicious Euclid in this Respect; and he has done it with equal Art and Felicity. By this means he has delivered the young Student in Algebra from that which is usually the most fatiguing Part of the Science, viz. The Doctrine of Surds, in the Manner in which it is usually taught. By the same Means he leads his Reader directly to Equations; and, by shewing him the Profit he will reap from this Science, encourages him to overcome all its Difficulties. But having thus laid a strong and rational Foundation, he moves more slowly through the rest of his Work, that whoever follows him, may be obliged to become Master of ever Branch of the Art, so as to be a complete Algebraist, before he quits his Book, and not a Smatterer.
 'Quadratic Equations, and the Art of managing Converging Series, the admirable Invention of the incomparable Newton, are here so clearly explained, and their several Cases so plainly set down, and so thoroughly explicated, that it may be truly said, there are no where else such Instructions to be met with. At the Close of the Book, we find abundance of Observations, necessary for enlightening such Minds as are willing to proceed still farther in analytic Discoveries; so that considering the Compacts of this Work, and that too is very moderate, it is as complete as possibly can be expected: And he who is thoroughly versed in it, will find no great Difficulties, when he proceeds to sublimer Studies. The Language is plain and natural, the Book is more copious than any other in Examples, and the Illustrations of them are so full and clear, that it is impossible to mistake their Meaning.

An Infallible and Instant Cure
 For DEAFNESS, THICKNESS of HEARING, PAIN or NOISE in the EARS, &c. by the true Chymical Specifick Drops.

WHICH infinitely excel all other Medicines ever offer'd to the Publick, or known in the World for they directly cure Deafness, be it ever so bad, and all Thickness of Hearing and Noise in the Ears, almost at once, and after all other Means have failed, and without Trouble, or at least Uneasiness whatever, as many Thousands have experienced. They effectually remove all Pain occasion'd by Cold, Strengthen the Tympanum or Drum of the Ear, free the auditory Nerve from Obstruction, and remedy all Defects of the Hearing Faculty, & most in an Instant, causing those to hear exceeding quick and well, who before were in a Manner totally Deaf. Hundreds who were so very bad, as not able to hear a Word when beat close by them, and therefore deprived of being ever relieved, have been quickly and perfectly cured by them, to their great Joy and Admiration.
 In a Word, nothing in Nature can come near them for the cure and almost immediate Cure of DEAFNESS, proceeding from what Cause soever; but the great Esteem and Reputation they have justly gained for many Years past, have occasion'd (as usual in such Cases) many Counterfeits to come abroad; beware therefore of such Impositions, these excellent and only true Specifick Drops being to be had only, by the Author's Appointment, of the Gentlewomen at the two Blue Posts in Haydon-Yard, in the Minories, 3 s. 6 d. a Bottle, with Directions, and no where else in England.

The most Noble ELIXIR,
 For Hypochondriack Melancholy in Men and the Hysterick Disease or Vapours in Women.

IN three Days Time demonstrates to every one who takes it, that it is absolutely infallible for the thorough Cure of those perplexing Indispositions, even in the highest and most grievous Degree, where nothing but Human reigns, where Reasoning is interrupted or deprav'd, and where the Mind is confus'd with terrible Perturbation, Anxiety, and Despondency, even to Distraction, and the Body afflicted with almost innumerable Ailments.

'Tis surprising to see how soon this CELEBRATED ELIXIR, (even a few Doses of it only) entirely cures the vast Variety of Symptoms, and induces a new Train of cheerful and pleasant Ideas, instead of those deep and black Thoughts, those direful Apprehensions that so tenaciously dwell upon the soul, clouded the Understanding, and destroy'd all Notion of ever receiving Comfort again; for it occasions a Flow of undisturb'd Spirits, and causes bright Gleams of Joy to break in upon the Heart, and chase away the whole Load of depressed and melancholy Imaginations so effectually, that the Patients are suddenly reliev'd both in Body and Mind; and now enjoying perfect Health, free and lively Spirits, steady, serene, and gay thoughts, thus as much amaz'd that they could be chain'd down to such a dismal Way of Thinking, such dreadful Fears, and dark Incumbrances as before, they were hopeless of ever getting free from them.

In a Word, the Effect of this NOBLE ELIXIR is so suddenly and infallibly curing HYPOCHONDRIACK MELANCHOLY in Men, and the HYSTERICK DISEASE or VAPOURS in Women, in all their Shapes and Appearances, even after all other Remedies have proved fruitless, is so explicable, as the vast Numbers of both Sexes who have been perfectly cured by it, with the utmost Satisfaction declare.

It occasions no Manner of Disorder, is pleasant to take, a few Drops of it are a Dose, and is to be had only at Mr. RADFORD's Toyshop, at the Rose and Crown, against St. Clement's Church-yard in the Strand, at 5 s. a Bottle, with Directions.
